In May 1970 Henry Burke proudly announced the opening of a new luxury hotel in one of the most stunning locations in the Channel Islands.

A graduate of the Swiss hotel school in Lausanne, Henry's involvement with the Jersey Hotel and Guest House Association as its President led to his belief in the island as a tourist destination and his commitment to establishing a new hotel of the highest quality.

Henry's son Patrick joined the family business in 1985 and succeeded his father as Managing Director in 1987. Since this time an ongoing programme of investment and development has ensured that the property has retained its position as one of Jersey's finest luxury hotels.

This philosophy of continuous improvement led to the launch of the celebrated restaurant, Ocean which welcomed Executive Chef, Will Holland in October 2017, marking a new chapter for dining at the hotel.

Since its opening the hotel's family ownership has consistently delivered the highest levels of personal attention and service.

OCEAN RESTAURANT

Ocean is an exceptional luxury dining restaurant showcasing modern British cooking in a classic setting with the emphasis on fresh Jersey produce.

Executive Chef Will Holland creates sophisticated menus, including a seasonal a la carte, as well as a daily changing market menu and specially selected vegetarian and vegan dishes.

Will uses the best local ingredients and freshest produce from Jersey's coast and countryside. Many of these products already have international recognition and arrive straight into the kitchen bearing the distinctive Genuine Jersey logo.

Ocean's design is influenced by its coastal setting. Blues, whites and beiges create a modern classic look, while delightful hand crafted furniture and specially commissioned artwork emphasize the feeling of luxury. White American shutters frame stunning views over the gardens to the ocean beyond.

EXECUTIVE CHEF WILL HOLLAND

Predicted to be 'one of the 10 most influential chefs of the next decade' by The Good Food Guide, Will Holland has worked in Michelin-starred restaurants since the age of 18 and was awarded his own Michelin star before he was 30 years old. Taking a relaxed approach, the focus of his food is on celebrating exemplary British ingredients, using excellent technique resulting in outstanding dishes.

Will grew up in Bristol and when he was 13 he started working at a local butcher's shop after school and at weekends. By 14 years old he was certain his future lay in becoming a chef. After two years at catering college, Will secured his first job at Homewood Park in Bath working under Chef Gary Jones, now Raymond Blanc's Executive Chef at Le Manoir aux Quat' Saisons.

Will subsequently held positions at some of the finest establishments across the UK including Gravetye Manor in Sussex and Alan Murchison's L'Ortolan Restaurant in Berkshire. In 2007 he
